Ewing, Buckner, and Warner, and other friends of the bill had several conferences, as the result of which they agreed upon an amendment to be offered with the purpose of defeating the Springer amendment. Ewing's amendment provided that the market value of the bullion should be the highest market price at New York and San Francisco for a week previous to the purchase;

MADE THE CERTIFICATES A LEGAL-TENDER for all Government dues and debts; provided for the issue of certificates, and also provided that after deducting the amount of 40 per cent of the amount of certificates outstanding, which was to be retained by the Treasury for the purpose of redeeming the certificates, and that the remaining 60 per cent should be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of the public debt. Ewing hoped by this amendment to secure the rejection of the Springer amendment, leaving the bill exactly as it was reported. This attempt was made successful by

THE SPEAKER'S CASTING VOTE.

Much trouble, however, preceded it. Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, advocated Springer's amendment in the interest, he said, of good sense and good policy. Mr. March, of Illinois, solicited the silver dollar, but said that if the Democrats went to the country on the third section without an amendment they would be beaten to the horn of Gabriel would not wake them.

URGED CONGRESS TO GO HOME, and let business, peace, and order work themselves out.

Mr. Springer, to save his amendment, accepted much of Ewing's amendment as determined what the market price of silver should be, but this concession was ineffectual. The vote being taken upon Ewing's amendment resulted, in the midst of considerable excitement—years, 105; nays, 100; when Speaker Randall gave his casting vote in the affirmative for the Ewing amendment, it was adopted. This vote of Mr. Randall may be considered

A VERY INTRIGUING STRADDLE. Randall, in case the bill finally passes as it came from the Committee, will be able to say to those who advocated it by his casting vote he kept up the obnoxious Springer amendment, which it was conceded would tend to defeat the bill. On the other hand, if the bill should fail, Mr. Randall would be able to say to the opponents of it that by placing the Ewing amendment on the Springer amendment by his casting vote be prevented the adoption of the Springer amendment, which might possibly have passed and have carried with it many of the objectionable features of the bill, and Mr. Randall is

A PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE. Springer's amendment was then rejected by 86 to 171, nays, when the House adjourned until Tuesday. Mr. Warner, the author of the bill, rushing about in an almost frantic manner insisting both that the vote should be taken upon the main section and that there should not be an adjournment until Tuesday.

THE DEBATE.

On the Wednesday morning of the same day, when the House resumed its session, the bill was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and the amendment thereto on the third section.

The first amendment was one offered by Mr. Belford confining the privilege of free coinage to silver mined in the United States. The reason for this was, that there is no more than Europe with a view to arrange for a bi-metallic standard, and it might be thought advisable to send a representative thither to take part in the proceedings. The second amendment, to which Belford's amendment was opposed, was to the effect that the coinage of silver should be stopped entirely. Ewing's amendment, and it was adopted—years 105, nays, 100—the Speaker casting the deciding vote, and amply supported on the Democratic side. Ewing's was then rejected—years 85, nays 171, and the House then, on motion of Mr. Clymer, adjourned until Tuesday.

THE LEGISLATIVE BILL. SABINEY PARADES ECONOMY. WASHINGTON, D. C., May 17.—Consideration was resumed of the bill to amend the statutes relating to gold and silver coinage and bullion certificates, the question being on the third section of the amendments thereto.

The first amendment was one offered by Mr. Belford confining the privilege of free coinage to silver mined in the United States, to the amount of $100,000,000. This amendment was defeated, and the second, to stop entirely the coinage of silver, was carried by a vote of 85 to 171. Mr. Belford's amendment was voted down, and the bill was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and the amendment thereto on the third section.

A BILL OF PARTICULARS in regard to his proposed reductions, and the Delaware Senator at once fell back upon the army, which he wanted reduced or wiped out entirely. This was the signal for a lengthy discussion, although it was a noticeable fact that Senator Sabiney stood alone on the Democratic side. Nobody even attempted to assist him, but Senator Eaton, and he was made the victim of such bitter sarcasm by Mr. Conkling as to cause him to leave the Senate.

PARIS.

A Dressmaker's Piece at the Vaudeville.

Ed. Gondinet's Comedy, "Les Tapisseries," and the Costumes Worn in It.

Jeanne Granier at the Renaissance Echoes of the "Assommoir" Bull-Herve's New Ballet.

Literary and Musical Gossip—A Posthumous Tragedy of Lamartine—Sale of M. de Sacy's Library.

Special Correspondence of The Tribune.

Paris, April 30.—M. Ed. Gondinet, the author of countless merry comedies, has just written a new specimen of his talent in a play called "Les Tapisseries," which is now being given with some success at the Vaudeville. I will not trouble you with any long account of the play itself; it was given dramatically as almost vaudevillian, in spite of the sparkling and mirth-provoking dialogue which enlivens the three long acts. The witicism, the make-up, the stage would perhaps in a foreign edition seem tame, but, which is nothing, is not sufficiently interesting in the plot of the comedy to mask amends for the loss of the original bou-eota.

"LES TAPISSEURS."

It is more a collection of disjointed scenes copied from the life of the brilliant, hollow, shifting world which some call the "tout-Paris," —a world of ephemeral pleasure and constant excitement, peopled by a strange mixture of Cabaret-Ministers, racketty men about town, facile wivous, faithless wives, forgoing husbands, swindling projectors, pretty actresses, and Oriental princelings—with three dominant thoughts in their heads: to amuse themselves; to grow rich; and, last but not least, to get tagged off! All these come and go in "Les Tapisseries," like puppets in a marionette-show. Each lets off his conversational sputum, and gives place to another, who lets off his squib, quip, satire, happy or the reverse. As a kaleidoscopic reflection of real life, "Les Tapisseries" is indeed in the usual sense of the word, it is beneath criticism.

AMONG THE CHARACTERS.

The alarm from Box 413 at 11:15 yesterday morning was caused by a fire on the roof of a two-story frame building at the intersection of Bradley street with the Northwestern Railroad, owned and occupied as a tannery by H. L. Spangler. The fire was easily extinguished with a few pailfuls of water. Cause, sparks from the chimney upon the roof of Campbell, Cullen & Co.'s tannery on Lumber street near Spangler. Damage trifling.

The alarm from Box 532 at 8:30 yesterday morning was caused by a rekindling of the embers of a fire at No. 736 West Lake street. No damage.

AT CHICO, CAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—A fire at Chico last night destroyed two blocks in the business portion of the town. No details as yet.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—The fire at Chico, which quite destructive, was less serious than the first advised. The Central Hotel, several dwellings, and a number of stores and workshops were consumed, but the better portion of the business district is unharmed.

SAFETY. —A Georgia Prince, who turns out to be the real husband of the lady; and many whom I need not specially mention.

And now a few words about the great attraction in the piece.

The Guild of the Church of the Epiphany have been holding a "Woolly" every day, last Thursday evening, at which time "The Mistletoe Bou尤H" was rendered in a musical pantomime at the West End Opera House. The house was crowded, both to staves and gallery, and the audience was greatly interested in the affair from beginning to end, and did it so well that there was not a break or a jar to interrupt the movement from the commencement to the close. The "Bou尤H" in the mistletoe, who are among the elite of the West Side society, took parts in the cast, and their beauty, elegant toilettes, and appearance generally excited the admiration of the spectators. Special mention was made with Miss Elizabeth, who took the part of young Louis' s bride. The scene of the forties under the mistletoe bough was true to life. Little Emma Cook recited a poem in the manner of a child, surprising in one of such tender years. The little creature was dressed in the evening toilet of a young lady, and so well did she act her part that she deserved a medal. There was merely a quid of 7 or 8 years. The entertainment was a success financially, and Mrs. Williams is urged to repeat the performance on the South Side.
